Scott presents shelter kits to local organizations

Last week, Haliburton–Kawartha Lakes–Brock MPP Laurie Scott presented much-needed shelter supplies to two local organizations, Kawartha Haliburton Victim Services and Women's Resources. Each organization was presented with approximately 50 shelter kits, which were generously donated by GlobalMedic, a humanitarian aid organization. The kits include essential personal hygiene products for women.

"I am pleased to present these hygiene kits to Kawartha Haliburton Victim Services and Women's Resources, on behalf of GlobalMedic. Kawartha Haliburton Victim Services and Women's Resources are fantastic local organizations that do extremely important work to support vulnerable women in our community. I hope that these supplies will help these organizations continue to support local women in need," Scott said.

"I would like to thank GlobalMedic for generously donating these kits to Kawartha Haliburton Victim Services. The feminine hygiene kits will be offered to women who have been victimized by crime or suffered through a traumatic event," said Laura Proctor, the executive director of Kawartha Haliburton Victim Services.

"These feminine hygiene kits are a welcome addition to our emergency shelter supplies at Women's Resources, and will go directly to women in need," remarked Penny Chatson.

Kawartha Haliburton Victim Services works alongside police and emergency services to provide support to victims of crime and tragic circumstances. Kawartha Haliburton Victim Services has volunteers available 24/7 at 1-800-574-4401 to provide crisis assistance to victims. Women's Resources operates a variety of services for women in need, including an emergency shelter, housing for abused women, and outreach counselling. Women's Resources operates a 24-hour crisis support line at 1-800-565-5350.

'Check in' to ensure tattoo parlours are inspected

As a fashion statement, tattoos and body piercings are leaving their mark on many people – which makes it important to ensure that businesses providing these services are safe and clean.

With this being National Infection Control Week, area residents are reminded to check that the tattoo parlour or body piercing business of their choice is regularly inspected by the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit. Thanks to the new HKPR CheckINspection website (www.hkprcheckINspection.ca), inspection results for hundreds of businesses and services in Northumberland County, Haliburton County and the City of Kawartha Lakes are now accessible to the public. Tattoo and body piercing businesses can be searched under the "Personal Services" category of the website.

The health unit is responsible for inspecting establishments that offer personal services such as tattooing, body piercing, hairdressing, barbering, waxing, electrolysis, manicures and pedicures. During these inspections, public health inspectors ensure that businesses and staff follow proper infection prevention and control measures.

"While the piercings and tattoos may look good on you, it's important to treat these procedures with caution and care," says Carol Chan, a public health inspector with the HKPR District Health Unit. "Procedures like body piercing and tattooing involve breaking the skin, which is the body's first line of defence against illness and infection. Since the skin has been broken, care is very important to prevent infection."

Locally, there are many reputable operators offering piercings and tattoos that are only too happy to share their health unit inspection reports and answer questions about how the procedure is done. Chan says these operators are not the problem. "The real concern lies with individuals and operations that are not inspected by the health unit. These operations may be doing piercings, tattoos and other procedures 'undercover' in private homes," she adds.

To be safe and not sorry, Chan advises people to:

• Carefully choose a tattoo artist who is trained in tattooing. Find out about the practitioner's training and what their practices are to ensure clean workstations and sterilized equipment. Shop around for another tattoo artist if you feel uncomfortable in any way.

• Observe the person giving a tattoo, as this can reveal a lot about his or her infection control practices. The practitioner should wash their hands before and after the procedure, wear disposable gloves throughout the procedure and ensure the tattoo ink is not reused. The person should also opt for single-use sterilized needles, and open the sealed, sterile packages in front of you before starting the procedure.

• Look at the appearance of a tattoo parlour, including if it is clean and well lit, as this tells a lot about the business. A good tattoo practitioner should have a biohazard container for safe disposal of contaminated needles, a heat sterilization machine (also called autoclave) to sterilize equipment that is non-disposable, and a leakproof garbage container for disposing of items.

"Don't let yourself be pressured into getting a tattoo without considering these precautions," Chan says. "While tattoos are a way to express yourself, they can also have lasting consequences on your health."

Two scary nights at the Minden Hills Cultural Centre

The word Halloween comes from the Old English All Hallows' Eve, which occurred on Nov. 1. The word "Hallow" is Old English for saint. That's why the other name for Halloween is All Saints Eve. Many of the customs associated with Halloween go back to the Celtic "Samhain," an event that celebrates the beginning of winter and the Celtic New Year. Spirits, or fairies, were said to roam the earth on this evening, playing tricks on human beings to mark the season of diminishing sunlight. Bonfires were lit and offerings were made of food and drink. Today in Canada and the United States, Halloween, held on Oct. 31, has evolved to where children go from door-to-door in costumes demanding "trick or treat."

Trick or treating comes out of the tradition of handing out soul cakes. Soul cakes are a cross between a biscuit and a scone and are traditionally made for All Souls Day, which occurs the day after All Hallows Day, on Nov. 2. The custom of handing out soul cake to Soulers, dates back to the medieval period. Soulers were mostly children and the poor, who went door-to-door singing, and saying prayers for the souls of the soul cake giver, and their friends and family.

Additional activities include attending Halloween costume parties (like the costume party at the arena on Oct. 26), carving pumpkins into jack-o'-lanterns, lighting bonfires, apple bobbing, divination games, playing pranks, visiting haunted attractions, telling scary stories, and watching scary films.

In Minden, the cultural centre will be having an Outdoor Movie Night on Oct. 19. This scary preview to Halloween will feature the movie Ghostbusters. If it rains the movie will be shown in the old church in the Heritage Village. Bring a chair, and/or blanket and dress warmly. Admission is by donation. Movie start time is 7 p.m. There will be trivia questions with a prize to the winner. Contact 705-286-1936 for more information.

Then, on the evening of Oct. 31 the Minden Hills Museum and Heritage Village will be participating in trick or treating. The village will be decorated and all trick-or-treaters are welcome to stop by the Bowron house for some candy and games. The event goes from 5 to 8 p.m. and admission is free.

While at the museum and Heritage Village folks can support the Minden Rotary Interact Food Drive. It's organized by the students of HHHS and donations can be dropped off at the museum. We scare hunger!

The Minden Museum and Heritage Village are located on the grounds of the Minden Hills Cultural Centre at 176 Bobcaygeon Road in Minden. For more information call Ruth at 705-286-3154.

Top 10 reasons you shouldn't dress for Halloween at work

HALLOWEEN IS just about here and with it comes office parties and days when dressing up as an apple is not frowned upon. Even so, I'd strongly advise against dressing up. Here are my top 10 reasons.

STEVE GALEA
Humour Columnist

1. You work alone.
2. It's hard on your self esteem if you dress up as Frankenstein and no one notices.
3. Your wife says your French maid outfit is getting snug.
4. No one buys insurance from the Hamburglar.
5. The sexy nurse costume is now frowned upon, plus you'd have to shave your chest hair.
6. You have a horse costume and this year it's your turn in the rear.
7. Jane at the next desk is getting tired of your Tarzan costume and your one joke.
8. It's hard to do CPR in a spider costume.
9. You want to save your bear costume for the company picnic.
10. If you dress as a zombie, you'll just look like everyone else once quitting time comes.

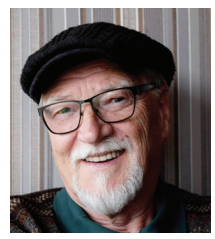
Terry Sullivan has recently moved to the Haliburton Highlands from England via the GTA. He is a watercolour painter and enjoys depicting local architecture.

Introducing watercolourist Terry Sullivan

EVERY ONCE in a while I like to write about an artist who is new to our community. This time it's Terry Sullivan, a former resident of London and Leckhampstead in England, and then the GTA. Terry and wife Sally came to this country six years ago, and after a few years in Mississauga they moved to the Highlands, which they had previously visited.

Like his father before him, Sullivan always wanted to build his own house, and land prices in the Highlands allowed him to do just that. So now, after approximately four years, the house in the village of Haliburton is near completion and Terry can get down to his artwork. Most of his paintings consist of small, delicately rendered watercolours that depict architectural structures.



GEORGE FARRELL
On Arts/Culture

Sullivan is an architect by trade and his most recent big project was working as part of a design team on St. Paul's hospital in Vancouver. Before the age of computers much of his work consisted of designing architectural illustrations and set perspectives; "and creating an accurate rendition of what the building would look like," Sullivan said.

From designing buildings that weren't there, creating paintings of buildings that are already in place would seem like a natural transition. Sullivan got into watercolours about 35 years ago in England. Most of his early works were renderings of architecture that appealed to him: houses, churches and some statuary. On his travels he also painted landscapes.

"Watercolours are the most challenging because with most other media you get a second chance to do it better, but with watercolours if it's not working out you throw it away," Sullivan said. "I like the immediacy of it, because you can do another one quite quickly."

Sullivan has enjoyed painting some of the local scenes and buildings in and around Haliburton such as the train, the caboose outside the Rails End Gallery, the gallery itself, the former Heritage House Cafe, the falls at Emmerson Lumber, Sandy Point beach, and Wren Lake on Highway 35.

"I paint local scenes because I feel that would be most appealing, and I'm always keeping my eyes open for image ideas," Sullivan said. "Anything can be an inspiration." His local collection of watercolours join those in his home studio of other locales he's visited, such as the Parliament building in Victoria, B.C. and the Isle of Wight in the U.K.

Sullivan showed me his surprisingly small kits he uses for painting. The little flat tin boxes contain coloured tablets and enough space for a small pool of water with which to dissolve the colours. As mentioned, his pieces tend to be small; so along with his small kits, his brushes, folding stool and table complete his requirements.

Sullivan begins his paintings by first outlining with pencil. Then he builds up the washes from light to dark. "I tend to do the backgrounds first, and then build up," he said. "Sometimes after everything is dried I'll use a pencil for highlights."

Sullivan told me that he'd like to paint "more little scenes around town for next year." I told him that this pleased me because one of my beefs with our artists is that not many of them consider local town scenes for their subject matter.

If someone, centuries into the future, were to look at our present-day art, he or she would get very little information as to what our towns looked like. Terry Sullivan can help to rectify that situation, and that's one of the reasons why I consider him a valuable addition to our local arts scene.

All of Sullivan's watercolours are affordable, under $100, and there are a few of them on display in the gift shop of the Rails End Gallery, where he is now a member. As for what the future holds for Sullivan, he said that "it would be nice to be on a studio tour and maybe have a show sometime, and to have a booth at various arts and crafts markets."

In addition to his other works Terry Sullivan has painted many watercolours of people's houses. So if you'd like an original watercolour of your house or cottage painted by a skilled artist, you can contact Terry at 705-854-0182.

Chamber offers workshops for Small Business Week

JENNIFER LOCKE
Chamber News

It has been a busy month here at the Chamber, with six events (free to our members) going on for Small Business Week 2018. We are very proud to be able to offer the community with quality speakers, professional development and networking opportunities all designed to help our members to succeed in their businesses. As small businesses are truly the backbone of our economy here in the Haliburton Highlands, we understand that when they succeed our community succeeds!

On another note, I am very excited to announce that we have officially signed on six new members in the past few weeks. We are so honoured to have them as part of the Chamber family, and we look forward to supporting them in their work. The new members include: Outram Tree Solutions, Sandy Lane Resort, Abbey Retreat Centre, Terry Carr Moving the Highlands, Country Pickin's, Russell Red Records, and Haliburton Solar and Wind. If you would like to find out more about what it is that these organizations do and what they offer to our community, check out the member directory on our website.

The last thing I wanted to talk about is our Nov. Chamber Breakfast and Networking Event. It will take place on Nov. 6, beginning at 7:30 a.m., at Molly's Bistro Bakery in Minden. We are so fortunate to have booked Louie DiPalma, the vice president of small medium enterprise programs at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

The Ontario Chamber of Commerce has been around for more than a century as a non-partisan advocacy group representing the voice of business at Queen's Park. Every member of our Chamber is also a member of the Ontario Chamber. In his role at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, Louie is responsible for developing and implementing initiatives designed to strengthen the business climate across Ontario. He is truly a wealth of experience and a wonderful resource to have as our guest for this event!

The topic for the breakfast is "Discover Ability" which reviews the Accessibilities for Ontarians with Disabilities Act, describes the advantages of developing an inclusive workforce, and promotes the business case for hiring persons with disabilities. Louie has been a long-time advocate for inclusion of persons with disabilities in the workforce, and we are very excited to hear his perspective and insights on this issue. The cost for members is $20 and non-members is $25; of course, our premium members get five of their breakfasts for free. We hope you can join us, members of the community are more than welcome! All of the information and registration can be found in the upcoming events tab of our website.

Overall, it continues to be an exciting time at the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, with many local organizations coming on to take advantage of the benefits of membership and planning wonderful events for our members! To keep up-to-date on all things Chamber, follow us on social media or go to www.haliburtonchamber.com.

Ball tournament benefits 4Cs

Kim Henry, left, and Brianne Pockett with daughter Gracie, 8, presented four boxes of food and $2,817 to the Haliburton food bank's treasurer and manager Judy MacDuff on Tuesday, Oct. 2 at the 4Cs on York Street. Henry and Pockett made the donation from their autumn softball tournament held over two days from Sept. 28 to 29 at the West Guilford ball diamond. Money was raised from team registration, barbecue sales and a raffle (with great support from Haliburton Foodland and the West Guilford Shopping Centre). Last year, the Fall Ball Charity Classic donated to the West Guilford Recreation Centre. MacDuff was amazed at the generosity, which will help the food bank's 200 clients./DARREN LUM Staff

Kinmount Farmers Market warms up a cold day

SUE TIFFIN
County Life Staff

The Kinmount Farmers Market, which sometimes saw almost 600 people flock to the Austin Sawmill Heritage Park next to the Burnt River on Saturday mornings, held its final market of the season last weekend.

Despite the cold day, the vendors at the Oct. 6 market were smiling, working on their wares or sharing garlic with each other.

Lisa Kinsman, at the Little Grey Farmhouse booth, sells rustic home decor that she creates using reclaimed barn board. She said the cold, rainy weather had put a bit of a damper on the market that day, the first time she had attended the Kinmount market, but that she was inspired by the "nice compliments," she was receiving. She'll be back for the Christmas Market in December.

At the booth next to Kinsman, her aunt Linda Mehak, head of the farmers market association, was kept busy selling breads, muffins and jars of homemade spreads and sauces.

"It went really good," she said. "We had a really good year. Most of the vendors I've talked to said sales were up dramatically this year."

Mehak, whose booth Linda J's has been open for six years at the Kinmount market, said the clientele is a good split of area residents and cottagers who are often repeat customers. Visitors to the market have told Mehak they wait in anticipation for market day while they are in the area. Mehak's son even met a market customer on a bus in Panama.

Across the way, retired schoolteachers Ray and Chris Johnson were at their Triple Creek Jewellery booth selling handmade sterling, silver-plated and silver-filled wire jewelry.

"The weather was beautiful," said Ray, noting that sunny days could impact business negatively. "Probably people wanted to stay on their docks."

Ray said the market had a great atmosphere, with excellent food and vendors, and a unique clientele.

The Kinmount Farmers Market runs from May to October at the Austin Sawmill Heritage Park in Kinmount. The Christmas Market will be held Dec. 8 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the local community centre.

Linda J's Market booth at the Kinmount Farmers Market was a popular one on Oct.6, with shoppers stopping in for a treat or two./SUE TIFFIN Staff

Garden branches out to community

JENN WATT
County Life Editor

After buying the old Victoria Street School in Haliburton in 2013, staff at Community Living Trent Highlands wanted to take the space already known and beloved by the local population and share it.

They began to think about how to use the large corner lot to bring community members in.

They started with a few garden plots. Community Living kept two for their clients, and the rest were open to anyone who wanted a place to grow their own food.

"People can come here and spend time and have their garden," said Teresa Jordan, CEO of Community Living Trent Highlands.

The program has been popular; all of the plots are used each year with a waiting list for new gardeners.

Last fall, United Way for City of Kawartha Lakes and Community Living held an event called a Day of Caring. People pitched in to build several more garden plots, some of them elevated off the ground to improve accessibility. They have also installed a walking path, built a fence to prevent deer and other critters from getting in, erected a small greenhouse and put up a gazebo.

On Friday, Oct. 5, representatives of several United Way member agencies came to check out the results of all the hard work.

Jordan estimates about $5,000 was spent on the expansion with plenty of in-kind donations and volunteer labour.

Penny Barton Dyke, executive director of United Way for CKL, was at the event and pointed out that food security is one of the focuses of her organization.

More than 100 garden beds have been created in City of Kawartha Lakes through United Way, she said, including 18 at the United Way office. They've started a Veggies for Vets program and hope to approach the Legion branches in Haliburton County about putting in community gardens on-site.

Aside from their garden projects, United Way also funds children's programs through their LCBO "At the Till" campaign, which have raised nearly $75,000 in three years. The money has been distributed to Food for Kids, Big Brothers Big Sisters, and EarlyON.

Their most recent campaign wrapped up on Oct. 7.

Barton Dyke said gardens help improve neighbourhoods and that in places they've been built, "often it's really united people" who become watchful of the sites.

A subgroup of United Way called Women United paid for the greenhouse, which will be made available to Community Living gardening groups.

Highlands summer festival 2018 Live Theatre

Highlands Summer Festival presents... the Inaugural, exclusive, deficit busting

non-event event

You are cordially invited to not attend this non-event fundraiser.

The non-event that you will not be attending is

Saturday, October 27th, 2018

When you donate to this exclusive cultural event of the autumnal season, you will receive nothing except an evening at home, an evening that is completely paid for and free to do as you wish.
Spend it with family and friends or just by yourself thinking about how you supported local community theatre.
Please feel free to talk as loud as you would like, leave your cell phone on.
Videotaping, flash photography and falling asleep are permitted.

When you donate $100.00 towards the special non-event you will not be receiving…
Two tickets to the non-event performance of the season.

As a special bonus all donors will be entered into a draw for two season passes to the 2019 Highland Summer Festival (a $320.00 value!)

Buy them for all of your friends! There is no limit to the number of tickets you can purchase as this event is not really happening.

Make your donation securely by Saturday October 27th at www.highlandssummerfestival.ca or call the box office at 705-457-9933 or toll free 1-855-457-9933.
Or mail your cheque to
Highlands Summer Festival P.O. Box 938
Haliburton ON K0M 1S0

The draw will take place November 18th with the announcement of the 2019 Summer Season.
This is your opportunity to show your support for the continued success of Highlands Summer Festival and help us get out of a deficit from last season.

The Health of Animals Branch of the Department of Agriculture in Peterborough has confirmed that a live bat found on a farm in Snowdon township last week was rabid.

A number of dogs that came in contact with the bat have been quarantined.

On Monday October 1, the Department confirmed that a fox trapped near Davis Lake in Lutterworth township was also rabid.

The fox was captured in a trap set by the Predator Control , Branch of the Ministry of Natural Resources after the ministry received a report that a coyote had killed a lamb two weeks ago.

On Sunday night a coyote was captured in the trap and is now being examined for rabies.

David Camelon of the MNR District Office in Minden informed The Times that the examination of the coyote is being conducted as a precautionary measure and that rabies is not suspected.

Camelon noted that rabies is more prevalent in animals in the spring when wild animals are in a weakened state due to lack of food.

He pointed out that there has been a good food supply this summer so that wildlife should be healthy but added it is not unusual to find rabid animals at this time of year.

He added that there are usually two or three cases of rabies reported in Haliburton County every year and suggested that the two confirmed reports of rabies are isolated and coincidental cases.

There have been two other confirmed cases of rabies in Haliburton County this year.

The confirmed incidents of rabies has resulted in a number of precautionary actions being taken by area residents. Several farmers have been exercising extra care with livestock, limiting their access to open pasture.

The authorities advise that individuals should avoid contact with wild animals acting in a strange manner. As well, pets should not be allowed to roam, to avoid contact with potential rabies carriers. Pets should also be innoculated for rabies to protect them and family members from the disease.

Catholic Parish plans addition

Bishop Doyle of the Diocese Peterborough has recently announced approval of the proposed expansion of the Minden Roman Catholic Church.

The addition to the Church will be built at right angles to the sanctuary in the direction of the hospital and be sixty feet in length with the width at thirty-two feet being the same as the present Church.

The facility will be a dual purpose one of providing space not only for normal parish functions but also additional seating capacity for Mass during the summer as it will be open to the sanctuary area.

Bishop Doyle indicated that construction could commence once 50% of the project's cost had been raised at the local level. Fund raising projects have already started and Father Thomas Palakal said that he is hopeful that construction would start in 1985.

Housing program aims explained

by Michael Shirley

Critics and supporters of the Central Mortgage and Housing's Rural and Native Housing Program (RNHP) had an opportunity to voice their opinions on Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the Anson, Hindon and Minden Municipal Council.

About 20 people attended the meeting that was arranged by council because of the recent criticism of the CMHC's plan to construct a home in the Highland Gate Estates subdivision. The offer to purchase a lot in the subdivision was turned down by council because of the opposition of the residents. Don Moulds, a CMHC representative from Peterborough attended the meeting to address the concerns of the residents and to outline the purpose of the RNHP.

According to Moulds the program was initiated in 1974 in response to representations from native groups from across Canada. The program was designed to assist low income families in small communities to purchase homes.

At present there are 1100 housing units covered by the program in Ontario, including 300 homes under the jurisdiction of the Peterborough office.

CMHC conducts an intensive review of those applying to the program, taking into consideration their yearly income, credit history, debts, the number of dependents, etc.

Clients pay 25% of their adjusted gross income, which is reviewed annually, until the total costs are recovered by the CMHC.

Three homes were built in Minden in 1983 and an additional home was slated for the area this year. When the CMHC's offer to purchase a property in the Highland Gates Estates was turned down by the municipality, a decision was made to purchase an existing house. According to Moulds the CMHC intends to subsidize 34 homes in the area covered by the Peterborough office in 1985 but he did not know how many would be built in the Minden area.

He noted that the Corporation intends to provide a higher proportion of total housing units to native groups than in the past. He added that about 17 people in the Minden area have applied to take part in the program.

When asked to evaluate the success of the program in terms of evictions, Moulds replied that the most important consideration was the fact that the Corporation had assisted 1100 people in the province to purchase homes. Although he would not give any specific figures he noted that "the arrears rate is higher than we would like it."

He stated that one of the keys to solving the problem was to offer financial counselling to clients noting that this was "a real problem area".

Another important factor he noted was the increase in energy costs. He pointed out that in some cases increases in income have not kept pace with the increase in the cost of heating fuels.

He concluded by stating "I am not aware of any problems in the Haliburton area."

Favours continuation

Brendan Berube who has acted as a spokesman for the residents of the Highland Gates Estates in the past told the CMHC representative, "We are glad that the program exists because it helps a needy sector of the Canadian population," adding that he was in favour of continuing the program in the Minden area.

He went on to say that he was glad that the CMHC dropped their plans to build a home in the Highland Gate Estates because he did not believe that it was a well thought out idea.

Then, referring to federal government documents he noted that a study had shown that the housing program did not meet the needs of those most in need. Berube asked what measures were being taken to remedy the problem.

Moulds replied that the study referred to rental housing only and that studies of the RNHP had shown that the program was
